CLOSING ACT IN MANILLA DRAMA

Dale Brooks Filed Complaint in Court Today Against Herschel Miller For $1500 Damages.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT CAUSE

Brooks Alleges That Miller Purposely and Maliciously Ran Into His Buggy.

It was the beginning of the last act in the Manilla drama when Henry Dale Brooks filed suit in the circuit court today through his attorneys, Sexton & McColgin against Herschel Miller for damages, demanding $1500 damages. The suit grew out of an accident which occurred Sunday, October third, when the plaintiff in the suit was thrown from his buggy and suffered a broken collar bone, and Miss Bertha Moore, who was in the buggy with him only barely escaped serious injury.

Young Brooks in the complaint says that on Sunday, October 3, he, in company with Miss Bertha Moore, drove from their home in Manilla to St. Paul. He further avers that about four o'clock of the same afternoon they started back to their home and were driving along the public highway when they saw Herschel Miller in company with another young man coming in a buggy behind them and driving rapidly.

According to the complaint young Brooks also started faster in order to get out of Miller's path. But Brooks says in the complaint that the faster he drove the faster Miller drove. They raced along that way for a short distance and Miller soon drove up alongside Brooks.

Brooks further complains that Miller drove his buggy into his, the wheels interlocking. They drove that way at a high rate of speed for several rods, when they came to a cross-road. Brooks says in the complaint that he attempted to turn off at the road in order to get out of Miller's way. He says that in turning his buggy was upset, throwing he and Miss Moore to the ground and the horse breaking away as the result. He further avers that his collar bone was broken and that he also suffered other painful bruises which have kept him from work since the time of the accident and disabled him so that he will be unable to do anything for several weeks to come.

For all the above complaints he asks the court for $150 damages, the costs of the case and all other further relief.

TRIBBEY'S SON IS MARRIED

Prominent Figure in Famous Whitecap Trial Takes a Wife.

Clessie Benton Tribbey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tribbey, and Miss Ethel Blanch Alexander were granted a marriage license this morning and were married by the Rev. R. W. Aberley. During the whitecap trial in which Mrs. Tribbey was a defendant, the young man stood by his mother and was an important witness in the case.

IMPROVING.

Connersville Examiner: Mrs. L. A. Frazee returned home last night from Rushville, where she attended the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Frank Croxton, who is a patient at the Sexton hospital, having undergone a very serious operation a few days ago. There is every possible chance for Mrs. Croxton's recovery recognized now by her physician.

NOTHIN' TO IT THEY SAY

New Castle up in Arms Over Stories From "Wets."

New Castle Times: All sorts of stories are heard at Anderson which is now rapidly going "dry," as to the large number of arrests made in New Castle for drunkenness, and inquiries have been made of friends living here by Anderson people. One story going the rounds at the Madison county capital Sunday was to the effect that sixty-eight appeared in justice of the peace courts in New Castle last Monday for intoxication. The fact of the matter is that there have been no drunk trials in the squire's courts in three weeks until Monday morning, when three were fined. Anderson papers please copy for the benefit of their readers.

COUNCIL ARRANGES FOR CITY ELECTION

Met Last Night in Regular Session and Selected the Election Inspectors.

VOTING PLACES ANNOUNCED

The city council met in regular session last night with a full attendance. The regular routine of business was transacted, which consisted mostly of allowing several claims. The city clerk was instructed to make arrangements for voting places for the coming city election which will be held Tuesday, November 2.

The following election inspectors were appointed by the council: First ward—1st precinct, J. E. Spradling; 2d precinct, George W. Osborne. Second ward—3d precinct, Job Stevens; 4th precinct, J. C. Clore. Third ward—5th precinct, G. E. Muir; 6th precinct, S. C. Conner.

The following voting places have been selected: First ward—1st precinct, old Catholic church; 2d precinct, room back of Farmers' Bank. Second ward—3d precinct, Ed. Caldwell's barn in South Morgan street; 4th precinct, Kramer's skating rink. Third ward—5th precinct, room across from C. H. & D. depot; 6th precinct, A. B. Irvin's automobile house in West Tenth street.

SAM HERKLESS IS SAFE AFTER STORM

Mrs. A. R. Herkless Receives Letter From Her Husband Saying His Brother Escaped Uninjured.

RELATIVES FEARED THE WORST

Mrs. A. R. Herkless has received a letter from her husband, who is in Florida, and who was in the recent severe storm there, stating that his brother, Sam, for whom so much fear had been expressed, was safe. Relatives here had heard that Sam Herkless was caught out in the storm and it was thought that he had lost his life. The letter said that he had passed through the worst part of the storm, but that he escaped uninjured.

BACK WITH GOOD NEWS FOR CITY

W. H. Ogan, Y. M. C. C. Directors and Older Business Men Have Conference Today.

GO DOWN TO HEADQUARTERS

The Men There Will Gladly Tell You Everything They Know if You Are Interested.

W. H. Ogan returned today from Indianapolis with some good news for Rushville. After his return there was a conference with the Young Men's Commercial club directors, and then they and Mr. Ogan met with some of the older men.

The result of these conferences is that things are looking brighter than they have for some time, and there will be some changes which it is thought will be satisfactory to all concerned. J. M. Woods, who was assisting Mr. Ogan, has not been here since yesterday morning.

The boosters have every reason to believe that they can make some good announcements through the press tomorrow and will gladly give out any information they have to those who call at Y. M. C. C. headquarters. The same old slogan is at work—there are no secrets to those who are interested in the city, but the trouble with publishing every deal is that people who are interested in other cities read them as well. Go down and hear the good news! Then you will sit up and take notice. There is nothing sure yet, but prospects are encouraging.

WEDDING THIS EVENING.

The wedding of R. Leslie Hinchman and Miss Clara J. Gray will take place this evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gray, in Union township.

Side Lights of Horse Show

The F. B. Johnson & Co. drug store has a neatly arranged window trimmed in the colors of the horse show. The window also contains the blankets worn by Lady Maud C. and Hedgewood Boy with the names of the pacers on them.

Gee, but it looked good to see all that fine stuff in the parade. Can you beat Rush county on anything?

Of course it was too bad it rained. But then might as well make the best of it for there doesn't seem to be any way to stop it.

At some places along the line of march they actually took their hats off to Lady Maud C. and her brother, Hedgewood Boy.

'Twas a proud moment for some of the boys who led the high class stuff in the parade.

Frank Wilson has a very tasty window for the horse show. The south show window contains a large portrait of Aileen Wilson, the Rush county mare, who was recently sold and made good on the track again the season just closed. Also a large pennant with Aileen Wilson's name on it is displayed in the window.

After all if any county should have a horse show, shouldn't Rush county be in the lead?

WEATHER MAN INTERFERED

Opening Program to be Postponed Until Thursday—Band Concert Tomorrow Night.

The weather man was indulgent enough to allow the opening parade of the horse show to take place today about one o'clock after it had been postponed from ten o'clock in the morning, and then opened up. The rain came down in torrents and flooded everything even the beautiful decorations which the merchants of the city had arranged.

After the parade the program was started, but had to be stopped. The first two or three events of the first class of draft horses were taken care of when the rain came down in such torrents that it was necessary to abandon the program all together.

The parade was carried out according to the program and showed an unusually good array of horses. Many of the committee are very enthusiastic about the bunch of horses here for the show and say that it surpasses the number and class of animals here for the first annual show last year. The parade was several blocks long and was led by P. A. Miller, driving Charley Hayt. He was followed closely by J. C. Crabtree, driving Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C., the world famous full brother and sister, who beat the world's record this year driven as a team. All down the line of the parade Mr. Crabtree and his wonderful team was given a round of applause.

The Cambridge City band furnished the music for the occasion. The band concert which was arranged for this evening has been called off on account of the inclement weather and will be held tomorrow evening. The program will be finished tomorrow if possible. The big parade of the whole show will be held tomorrow afternoon after all of the premiums have been awarded. All of the horses will participate.

MAKE A TASTY DISPLAY

O. P. C. H. Windows Decorated For the Horse Show.

Probably the most attractive show windows in the city are the two in the O. P. C. H. clothing company. They have an array of pictures which would interest the average observer whether he be a horse admirer or not. They have photographs of the leading winners on the turf for the past few years with their mark and the driver up. The group also includes some of the old pictures of horses who were here in olden days and helped to make Rush county a fast horse center. Probably the most interesting feature of the display is the harness worn by Lady Maud C. and Hedgewood Boy, the world's championship team to the pole.

HORSE DRAGS MAN FROM THE SADDLE

Charles Wamsley, Living Near New Salem Has Painful Experience With Fractious Colt.

LEADING ONE, RIDING OTHER

Charles Wamsley is suffering from injuries which he received last Tuesday at his home near New Salem. However, Mr. Wamsley is thankful that he escaped as easily as he did. He was riding one horse and leading another, when the one he was leading became fractious. It pulled back and he was dragged from the horse he was riding. His shoulder was badly injured, but it is not thought that the injury will be serious. In spite of his hard fall Mr. Wamsley held on to the colt he was leading.

WILL INCREASE THE REGISTER FEE

Recent Order From Postmaster General Makes Charge Ten Cents.

TO TAKE EFFECT DECEMBER 1

According to a recent order of the Postmaster General the register fee for a letter will be raised from the present price of eight cents to ten cents. The order will go in effect December first. Along with the increase in price of the fee comes also the increase in the indemnity. The government will pay fifty dollars for the loss of any registered letter while heretofore they have only paid twenty-five dollars. The indemnity has been raised from fifteen dollars to twenty-five in the last few years and now comes the raise to fifty dollars to go into effect December first.

WATSON STAYS BY OLD FRIENDS

Purchases William A. Allen's Residence in North Main Street For $8200.

WILL REMAIN PERMANENTLY

He Has Had Many Flattering Offers From Other Cities But Turned Them All Down.

That James E. Watson will remain in this city and make it his permanent home is evidenced by the fact that he today bought the William Allen property at the corner of Eighth and Main streets. The consideration was $8200.

Mr. Watson has had many flattering offers from other and much larger cities to locate, but he has turned them all down for Rushville. Several large cities over the State have sent committees to wait on him to get his consent to move to their city, but he has refused them all.

The fact that Mr. Watson will remain here means much for Rushville. His influence in helping Rushville to greater things will be felt and he as a man can do much for his home town. The fact that South Bend, one of the most, and probably the most, progressive city in Indiana sent a committee to Washington during the last session of congress to wait on him and extend a welcome to him in their city is only an example of the numerous offers which he has had.

The committee told him frankly that they would rather have him move to their city than locate a factory, and that was saying much. The South Bend papers came out with pleasing editorials inviting him there and asking him to become a citizen of their city.

Although the offers were all very flattering ones, Mr. Watson is still in Rushville and intends to remain here. The proposition which he had from South Bend is only one of the many which he had from cities over the State. He could have entered one of the most progressive law firms in Indiana at Terre Haute and even had a very urgent invitation to become a member of the firm.

CASES WERE COMPROMISED

Guffin vs. Stuttle Suits Taken Out of the Courts.

The suits of George Guffin vs. Stuttle, and the other on an account which have been in the justice of the peace courts over a month, have been finally settled. The cases were sent to Manilla on a change of venue, back here, and then back to Manilla, before they received a hearing. Watson, Titsworth & Green were attorneys for the plaintiff and Sexton & McColgin represented the defendant.

NIGHT OFFICE OPEN.

Shelbyville Democrat: Two additional operators have been put on by the Pennsylvania at Manilla since the office has been kept open at night. This is the only night office along the Pennsylvania from Columbus to Cambridge City, and the company closed it on account of the lack of business several months ago. Since business has increased the company has found it necessary to open it again.

CHARMING DAYS FOR PRESIDENT

Mr. Taft Finds Relaxation On His Brother's Ranch.

SORRY HE CAN'T STAY LONGER

The President's Only Regret Is That

Golden Days on Big Texas Ranch Cannot Be Prolonged—Wildcats, Wild Boars, 'Possums and Bald Eagles Enter Into the Incident of the Visit the President Is Paying His Wealthy Brother at the Great Gregory Estate.

Gregory, Tex., Oct. 20.—At the end of his first day of ranch life President Taft said: "I wish there was going to be a week or two of this instead of only four days," and all of the Taft special train passengers said "amen." It had been the first real day of rest that Mr. Taft has had since he started on his 13,000-mile jaunt. Arrangements have been completed for the wildcat hunt, but the president has not said yet that he will join in the chase. Just to show that they have wildcats out here, one of the cowboys brought one in. This one was dead. It was about four times the size of an ordinary cat. But with this relic before him the president refrained from committing himself on the hunt. To be a good wildcat hunter you have got to feel your way through the Texas thorn bushes and other brambles at night. The cowboy hunter laid a dead wild boar at the president's feet along with the wildcat. The president will try some of the wild boar meat.

The ghost of that 'possum that the president ate at Atlanta last fall is still pursuing him. This time the people of Aransas perpetrated the 'possum. It is safe to say that the president has had fifty 'possums given to him since that Atlanta banquet was pulled off, and he has not eaten a single one since. But this Aransas 'possum was a good 'possum. It was caught in the Presbyterian church there and, strange to say, was coal black. Nobody ever heard of a black church 'possum around here before, and the creature was sent to President Taft as an expert. He promptly let it out on his brother's 100,000-acre ranch.

Then there was also a bald-headed eagle incident. C. P. Taft had erected a tall flag-pole with a gilded ball on the top of it, and early in the morning he started out with the intention of putting an American flag on it for the first time. He found a big eagle perched on the gilded ball. Mr. Taft hurried back to the house and called up the president, and the old eagle was kind enough to remain on his perch until the president got a look at him.

This afternoon the president was given a chance to see the Texas cowboys in action. There was a big roundup of cattle on the ranch, and the president rode over on horseback to watch the herding and branding. Tomorrow the president will go to the town of Taft, which is on the Taft ranch, and will speak there.

NIGHT RIDERS DEFIED

Victims of Secret Warnings Assert Their Independence.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 20.—Night riders have again broken out in the burley tobacco section. The latest acts of the riders were committed in Mason county, where warnings were left at the homes of Fred Adams and Harry Allen, both of whom were given five days in which to pool their crops or suffer the consequences. Each of the warnings were addressed to the men and their wives, and both of them have issued statements in which they refuse to be forced into pooling their tobacco.

The Czar Going to Italy.

Odessa, Oct. 20.—The czar embarked on the imperial yacht Standart at Livadia and sailed enroute to Italy. He will not spend any time in Odessa, but will take a train as soon as he lands. It is understood that he is to travel by way of Warsaw, Posen, Frankfurt-on-the-Main and Besancon. He will enter Italy at Modena.

Sick Banker Taken to Court.

Mineral Point, Wis., Oct. 20.—Despite his serious illness, Phil Allen, Jr., was taken to Madison for appearance on the charge of forgery and the embezzlement of $168,000 of the funds of the wrecked First National bank.

Bully for Evansville!

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 20.—The city council has passed an anti-din ordinance, making it unlawful for factories to blow their whistles longer than three seconds at a time and oftener than four times a day.

Street Cleaner Caught by Car.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 20.—Xavier Graf, aged sixty-five, an employee of the street cleaning department, was killed by a North Thirteenth street car.

Grand Council of Select Masters.

Indianapolis, Oct. 20.—The annual meeting of the grand council of Indiana of royal and select masters is in session in the Masonic temple.

WOODBURY writes about His Famous HAIR TONIC

Extract from an article written by the Master Dermatologist when Woodbury's combination Hair and Scalp Treatment was first successfully prepared for Home Use.

"The formula under which this Hair Tonic is made was tested and improved for over thirty-five years before a bottle was sold through the stores."

"For over thirty-five years this Tonic has been used in the enormous practice of John H. Woodbury's Dermatological Institute."

"Millions of cases were treated, and after their cure the patients continued the use of this Tonic as a delightful refreshment to the scalp and to keep the hair soft, rich and glossy."

If you don't see Woodbury's face on the label it's an imitation.

"This necessarily meant repeated calls at the Woodbury Institute, often at the inconvenience of patients living at a distance."

"To supply this demand, and the growing call from those who had not been treated, for a Hair Tonic which was scientifically successful (not a mere commercial product) this Tonic has now been put on the market and can hereafter be had from all reputable dealers."

Now, right in your own home, you can use the preparations formerly supplied only to office patients of the Institute. No other preparations for the Hair and Scalp are backed up by the same unlimited experience. No others give such quick and such satisfactory results.

Woodbury's Hair Tonic saves the hair when all other preparations fail. It prevents dandruff; stops falling hair, and instantly relieves itching scalp. It restores the lustre to the hair; preserves its natural color; increases its vitality and makes it beautiful and abundant.

Everyone Endorses Woodbury's

Hair Now Growing Nicely.

My hair stopped falling out just as soon as I used the Woodbury's Scalp Cream in conjunction with the Scalp Cleaner. It's action was just like magic. The thick greasy dandruff is all gone. My hair is growing nicely and taking on a new growth. Your Hair Tonic I use night and morning, and it is the nicest hair dressing I have ever used. Thanking you for the letters of advice, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. JOHN F. HOWSON,
498 Quincy Street, Brooklyn.

This Specialist Uses Woodbury's

After ten years of careful study, and close observation of all conditions of the hair and scalp, I find the Woodbury method of treatment most successful of all. It is based on the most correct scientific principles. In cases of scalp disease the Woodbury preparations go right to the root of the trouble, and their curative and stimulating properties are remarkable. Am now using them exclusively in my offices and the results obtained are most satisfactory.

JAMES B. QUINN,
Hair and Scalp Specialist,
Monolith Building, New York City

Quick Results Pleased Him.

The dandruff and itching scalp were terrible and my hair was thinning out over the temples and at the back of my head at an alarming rate. Nothing seemed to help until I used the Woodbury remedies, but good results were then noticed from the start, and in a few days the dandruff was entirely gone and new hairs began to show. What pleased me most was that results were so quick. The Woodbury Hair and Scalp Remedies certainly make the hair grow.

Yours very truly,

Road Making Season Here

This is the season when the public roads of the country are receiving attention and a great deal of work is being done and money expended thereon. While the present system of keeping up the highways is much better than that which prevailed in pioneer days, yet there is no doubt that much energy and expense are misdirected by those in authority about how to get the best results with the lowest cost. Every foot of highway is treated in the same way regardless of its surroundings and natural conditions.

Pile on more gravel—that is the slogan, whether it be on a grade or a hillside or a marsh. Whether the road needs underdrainage or needs side supports to grade, is all one to the supervisor.

Then again the changing condition of transportation calls for new line of improvement of highways.

Fast going vehicles make it imperative that the grades and the tracks shall be widened so as to allow free passage without danger to life and property. The auto car has come to stay, and its use demands wider tracks and more level road bed. The quality and prices of these vehicles are fast bringing them in favor with all classes of people—the farmer as well as the townsman—and ere long they will be used for business as well as pleasure. With increased speed comes increased danger and the roads will have to be widened made less full in the center, and many of the old culverts extended. The present practice of building the crown of the road so high is especially to be condemned. Besides being a source of danger it is really expensive as it gives rains too much washing power over the finer grains of the material. A more level grade, properly supported at the sides and frequently leveled by dragging would be a much less expensive system, and afford greater safety and comfort. In many of the more populous countries this latter system is being practiced already with good results.

The stone culverts now so generally used is the greatest advance in road making that has occurred in many years. In this matter, however, there is a disposition to curtail the size of the culvert to the detriment of the adjoining grade. Those in authority should read class papers on road making and keep abreast of the times.

COST OF EDUCATING A CHILD IN INDIANA

Board of Education Presents Interesting Figures.

Indianapolis, Oct. 20.—Figures prepared in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction relative to the per capita cost of education in the common and high schools in the state have disclosed the fact that during the school year of 1907-1908 the per capita cost in all such schools, based on the actual enumeration, the basis of which the state school fund of approximately $4.50 a pupil is distributed, was $17.49.

Based on the actual enrollment, the cost was $25.26, while based on the actual attendance, it was $31.70. The figures given above are much higher than if the common schools alone were considered, since the per capita in this class of schools runs from $25 in the smaller cities to $65 in the Manual Training high school in this city. No figures were made relative to the per capita in the common schools alone.

The governor's purpose in seeking the per capita in the common and high schools was to ascertain the difference between the cost of a pupil in these schools and the cost in the three state institutions of higher education, which, in the conference, was reported as follows: Indiana university, $162; Purdue university, $159.20; state normal school, $107. The three state schools had an enrollment of 5,604 in 1907-1908, while the enrollment in the common and high schools of the state was 531,731.

Weather in Nicaragua Said to Be Favorable to Revolution.

Bluefields, by wireless to Colon, Oct. 20.—President Zelaya's adherents have cut the telegraph wires in all directions from Managua.

Revolutionary Leader Estrada is now on his way to Bluefields, having posted his followers above Rama. Estrada has also sent 500 men toward the interior of the country. The advance of Zelaya's forces is being impeded by wet weather. The weather, however, is just suitable to the rebel leaders, who are gaining men and arms. Despite contrary assurances from Managua which emanate from President Zelaya, the movement against him is very serious.

BRIGHT COLORS THE FASHION

With Reversions to Old and Elaborate Styles, Men Will Be Able to Rival Women in Dress Display—Back to the Early Victorian Era.

If the leaders of men's fashions are to be believed there promises to come soon the most bizarre season in masculine raiment which the history of fashion has known since men laid aside knee breeches, satin waistcoats and lace jabots. Men are going in for colors anything but somber and clothing cuts anything but conventional.

No less a personage than Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, led the rebellion against conventionality in purple and fine linen, and this long before nature began to turn leaves gay colors and suggest that rich red and brown tints are good to the eye.

When the Long Beach season was at its height Mr. Vanderlip appeared at the Nassau hotel wearing evening clothes of pure white serge. Men in black dinner coats or blue serge with white flannel trousers sat up to take notice, but women followed after in admiration the full length of Long Beach's "peacock alley."

All in White. The trousers were the regulation dress cut, and the waistcoat followed the usual V shaped lines. The front of the coat followed conventional lines, but the back was quite short and pointed. White silk facings were used on lapels and collar, and white linen, a white silk bow tie and soft white leather shoes completed the makeup.

Comfort cannot account for the striking design of the new evening clothes which Caruso, the tenor, is wearing. These are made of royal purple broadcloth and cut upon conventional lines, with the silk braid stripe down the trousers legs. The coat is cut a trifle smaller in the front, the better to display a startling waistcoat of old fashioned brocade in flower patterns. With this Caruso wears a silk tie.

Certain Victorian tendencies are shown in the fall fashions for men. Waistcoats of gayest patterns and richest fabrics are being offered at all the smart shops where apparel for men is sold. Many of the new cravats are also large butterfly effects, but the band around the neck is not quite so wide as in the Victorian period. The seal or eyeglass hung on a ribbon is becoming quite a familiar adjunct of masculine dress, especially among the older beaux.

Striking Color Combinations.

But perhaps it is more in color combination than in fabric or cut that the masculine taste now runs to striking effects. Hosiery and cravats must match to a nicety, in vivid blue, green and crimson, to say nothing of half a dozen striking shades varying from violet to deep purple. Sometimes the socks are plain weave, in color matching the silk tie. Again, the tie will be a solid color and the socks will show a paler shade of the same color, with a small figure or stripe matching the tie. A third combination shows a stripe, green and black or brown and green, so fine that both tie and hosiery look like old fashioned changeable silks of the Victorian age.

New materials for waistcoats are gorgeous in the extreme, and the once sedate figure of conventional design is giving place to broad stripes, interlacing rings and even flowers, a bright figure on a neutral ground.

Jewelry now matches the prevailing tone in neckwear, hosiery, suit or shirt. Often all features of the wardrobe correspond in color. A very popular color combination is dull olive green with an almost invisible amethyst stripe in the fabric, lavender striped shirt and tie, socks matching the cuff links and amethyst scarfpin.

DOWRIES FOR UNIONISTS.

National Women's Trade Union League to Help Its Members.

No longer need young women be deterred from joining trades unions by the excuse that they are "about to be married." The adoption of a system of granting "marriage dowries" to members of women's unions has been decided upon by the biennial convention of the National Women's Trade Union league, held in Chicago.

The plan, which was adopted to induce women to join unions of their craft, provides that when any member of the organization marries she shall be presented with a dowry, the amount to be conditional on the number of years she has been a member.

For the benefit of spinsters and those who for reasons of their own may choose to remain single an amendment was added to the plan providing for the payment of "vacation dowries" to them in lieu of the "marriage dowries" they would have received in the event they had entered the state of conjugal bliss.

College to Bear Mrs. Sage's Name. Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse university, at Syracuse, N. Y., announced the other day that Mrs. Russell Sage had consented to have the Teachers' college at the university bear her name. It will be known as the Margaret Olivia Sage college. Mrs. Sage recently gave $50,000 as an endowment fund for the college on her birthday.

WEDDING ENDS IN A TRAGEDY

Bloody Scene Enacted at a Dance at Hammond.

TOUGHS INVADE DANCE HALL

In the Resultant Scrimmage John Potoski Was Slain and James Kries, His Brother-in-Law, and John Kulczyk, a Policeman, Were Fatally Hurt, While Six Others Received Minor Injuries—A Select Affair in Polish Circles Was Interrupted by Town Rowdies, and When Police Arrived a Riot Ensued.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 20.—One man was killed, two fatally injured and six were more or less seriously hurt in a riot following a wedding party at West Hammond.

John Potoski, aged twenty-four, was shot through the heart and killed; James Kries, his brother-in-law, aged twenty-six, was shot through the breast and is dying at St. Margaret's hospital; the head of John Kulczyk of the West Hammond police was split open and he is dying at his home. Another policeman was also struck in the head. A complete list of the injured has not yet been obtained by the police. A Polish couple just married gave a party to friends at a dance hall. It was a select affair and a crowd of village rowdies, angered because they were not invited, tried to break up the party. Police aid was sought and a gang of young toughs threw Kulczyk out of the hall before he could draw his gun. The toughs followed into the street and he shot two as he lay on the ground with his head fractured. Eight arrests were made.

MAY BE FRATRICIDE

Winchester Man Shoots His Brother in Quarrel Over Grocery Bill.

Winchester, Ind., Oct. 20.—John Dull shot and seriously wounded his brother, Marion Dull, in a pistol fight near Unionport, a village five miles southwest of Winchester.

The trouble arose over the payment of a grocery bill. The Dulls have a contract for the construction of a county ditch near Unionport and have been at work there for several days. They are well-to-do citizens of Randolph county and are well known.

The wounded man was shot in the hip and arm, and may die. Sheriff King placed John Dull under arrest soon after the shooting.

TWO AT ONE SHOT

Bullet Goes Through One Man and Lodges in Another.

Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 20.—Frank Bates and Roy McCall are at the Good Samaritan hospital in this city, each mortally wounded. McCall was shot in the neck by a bullet which passed completely through the body of Bates, piercing the right lung.

The men were shot by Deputy Marshal Luther Clark at Bridgeport, Ill., fifteen miles west of here, when Bates interfered with Marshal Joe Rodman and his deputy for arresting a man charged with beating a board bill. Clark claims the shooting was in self-defense. The wounded men, until recently, lived in this city.

HIGHEST AND LOWEST

From $29,000,000 to One Cent Is the Range of Judge Landis's Fines.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 20.—Judge K. M. Landis, who fined the Standard Oil company $29,240,000, has just fined John Bower of Rockford, one cent. Bower had sent a threatening letter to his brother-in-law, who is alleged to have misused members of his family. The judge apparently sympathized with Bower, and told him if he had said to the relative what he had written to him it would have been all right.

Red Men Elect Officers.

Indianapolis Oct. 20.—At the annual meeting of the great council, Improved Order of Red Men of Indiana, in session here, the following officers were elected: Great sachem, Dr. Charles M. Stone, Middletown; great senior sagamore, Oliver C. Norris, Rushville; great chief of records, Otto Wolf, Indianapolis; great keeper of wampum, Frank G. Castor, Indianapolis; great junior sagamore, George F. Harper, Madison.

Football Player's Neck Broken.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 20.—A second examination by the X-ray of Midshipman Earl D. Wilson of Covington, Ky., who was injured in Saturday's football game, has disclosed that one of the vertebrae of the neck is broken and makes it clear that the young athlete is in a most serious condition.

Sealed Bids Tampered With.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 20.—Mayor Schnepf has laid before State's Attorney Burke evidence that sealed proposals for furnishing city coal had been tampered with in his office. The discovery that someone had tampered with the proposals led to the rejection of all bids submitted.

MAKES NAVIES OLD.

Vessels Will Go to Scrap Heap if New Device Is Successful.

IMPROVED TURBINE INVENTED

Work of Three Famous Marine Engineers Intended to Put New Style Engines Into All Classes of Ships. Seeming Impossibility Conquered.

Unless the greatest of the world's marine engineers are mistaken in their estimate of the new turbine device invented by Rear Admiral Melville, John H. McAlpine and George Westinghouse the world will soon see a revolution in the art of building marine engines.

The new device means greatly increased speed, with greatly diminished space for boilers, engines and coal, and therefore great and economical changes in construction. It is perhaps not too much to say that it means also complete rebuilding of the navies of the world, for diminished size and weight of driving power, with increased speed, means capacity for carrying heavier armor and heavier guns. The first nation to possess vessels of this new type will have vessels of all other kinds at its mercy, and other nations must follow the example of the first or allow their navies to stand confessedly inferior.

The Westinghouse-McAlpine-Melville invention is intended to permit of the driving of a marine turbine engine at high speed, while the propeller connected with the turbine revolves at a lower rate of speed. This is a problem that has long baffled marine engineers. Owing to its seeming impossibility of solution the turbine engine has heretofore been used only in vessels of the greatest speed and proportionately small carrying capacity, making them enormously expensive. The new device is an arrangement of gears and pinions that reaches the desired end.

Development of the Turbine.

To make the nature and importance of this invention generally understood it is necessary to remember that all the world was talking about steam turbines a few years ago—not the engineering world only, but the world of laymen too. Turbines were to change steam engineering practice everywhere, ashore and afloat. They have not done so except on land. For stationary practice—that is to say, for driving machinery for the generation of electric currents—they are immensely successful. But for driving ships they are far less successful—not mechanically, but financially.

They drive ships, but at far too great a cost. Ashore they are economical; afloat they are extravagant. A few fast vessels have them, some liners and warships, but fast vessels comprise only 3 per cent of the ocean going tonnage of the world. If the war craft are deducted there remains not more than 1 per cent of sea ships that have a speed exceeding 20 knots an hour. And of these but few have turbines.

Ships intended for less speed than 20 knots an hour cannot afford to use turbines. And even the fastest ships have proved that the turbine drive is very costly. Ship turbines take too much steam. This means an excessive cost in fuel and a serious reduction in profits. It also means an excessive encroachment of bunker and boiler and engine room space.

Propellers Must Move Slowly.

A steam turbine is most efficient—that is to say, a pound of steam does the most work in it—when the motor is driven at a high speed. But the propellers of a ship are most efficient, they do the most work per pound of steam, when they turn at a low speed. The faster a propeller turns the smaller it must be in proportion to the work it has to do, the size of the ship it has to drive. The propellers of the turbine driven Mauretania are not more than eighteen feet in diameter. They turn 165 to 170 times a minute. They are smaller than the propellers of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Zweite, which revolve ninety to a hundred times a minute and are driven by reciprocating engines. All turbine ships have their propeller shafts connected direct to the turbines. Therefore the turbine speed and the propeller speed must be the same. This is a serious disadvantage, because the turbine is a high speed engine which has to work slowly and the propeller is a low speed appliance which has to work too fast.

If the Mauretania's propellers were to turn faster the ship's speed would not increase. It would diminish, because the "screws" would lose their grip on the water; they would drive the water away. Larger propellers turning at a slower speed would drive the Mauretania faster. Why, then, are they not used? Because they cannot be used with the present turbine practice. The new invention, however, will make their use possible.

MOTHER MARTHA ON STAMP.

Daughters of the Revolution Want Her Face on Twelve Cent Issue.

The picture of Martha Washington may be placed upon the twelve cent postage stamps of the present series. Members of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution have requested the postoffice department to take such action.

The suggestion is supported on the ground that it would be an appropriate recognition of one-half of the people of the United States, not to mention its merits from an aesthetic point of view.

A STRANGE CASE

Bejeweled Skeleton of Young Woman Found in Long Island Woods.

New York, Oct. 20.—The case of a young woman whose bejeweled skeleton was found in the woods along the Brentwood road is being looked into by the authorities of Suffolk county, Long Island. The discovery of the skeleton was made by children, whose father notified Coroner Savage.

About the throat of the victim hung a necklace of gold, with a heart-shaped locket set with a diamond. A picture had been removed from the locket. There was also a pendant pearl about three-quarters of an inch long hanging from the necklace. On the left wrist was a gold bracelet, with another pearl of similar shape attached to it.

The broadcloth skirt and coat had been partly consumed by the forest fires which swept the woods in May and June. The body had lain in the same spot probably for a year.

A large automobile veil of silk, found a few yards from the spot, bore in embroidered letters the name "Schwartz," leading to a quietly expressed opinion that the dead girl might eventually be identified as the missing fiancée of Gustave Schwartz, now in the Riverhead (L. I.) jail under indictment.

May Smith was the name of the nurse in the Central Islip hospital for the insane to whom Schwartz was reported to be engaged, and who disappeared so mysteriously about a year ago. She was never traced. It was reported that Schwartz had given her jewelry to the value of several hundred dollars.

THE CHILD WITNESS IDENTIFIES RIZZO

Dramatic Testimony of Survivor of Ravine Tragedy.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The six-year-old survivor of the ravine tragedy and the companion of the two children who were slain there on the night of Sept. 12, Fanny Infusino, named Theodore Rizzo in the supreme court as the perpetrator of those murders. Fanny went on the stand just after the examination of her mother, Mrs. Infusino. The child was not sworn because of her age. Her testimony was given as a statement under the section of the code providing for the emergency of witnesses too young to understand the nature of an oath. After reciting how the murderer had attempted to mistreat the Procopio girl and herself, Fannie was asked what she said to him.

She replied, "I said, 'I will tell my father and he'll shoot you. I'll tell a police and he'll have you arrested.' Then he said, 'I'll shoot you for fair.' He took out his gun and shot us, first Freddy, then Theresa and then me."

When asked whether she could see the man in the courtroom who did the shooting, Fannie pointed in the direction of Rizzo. "Stand up, Rizzo," commanded District Attorney Willis.

Rizzo stood up, and when asked if he was the man, Fannie replied that he was. Flushed and frightened, Rizzo sank back into his chair.

Then the child told how she had stayed in the ravine all night caring for her mortally wounded baby brother and now and then going to the spot where little Theresa lay cold in death. Fannie fell asleep several times in the thickets, but "little Freddie couldn't sleep because of the bullet hole in his stomach," she explained. The child's testimony and her identification of Rizzo as the murderer was not shaken in the least by the prisoner's counsel.

Will Hold Him Awhile.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 20.—William Fasson, a negro, has been sentenced to thirty years in the state prison for killing Charles Hummel, a white man, and to ten years for killing Bob Ferguson, a colored man, the terms to run separately.

BIG WOLF FENCE.

Texas Cattleman to Inclose Nine Thousand Acre Farm With Wire.

Samuel Hill is preparing to build a wolf fence around his big pasture near Christobal, in Schleicher county, Tex. This fence will be a big bit of work and when finished will be one of the best in that part of the United States. Not only will the wire be placed above the ground, but several strands will be buried, so that the pests cannot burrow under and get at the sheep or cattle.

The fence will be about fifteen miles long to go around the pasture, which contains 9,000 acres. Mr. Hill has about 9,000 sheep in the pasture as well as a big herd of cattle, many of them registered animals.

NEW FOOTBALL STUNT.

Candidates For Cornell Team Dive Into Pile of Meal Sacks.

In preparing the Cornell university football team for the opening game of the season the coaches piled up big sacks of meal on the field and had the forwards dive into them head on. Coach Dan Reed personally superintended this drill, and each man was compelled to jump into the meal after a long dive. The coaches said this would toughen them up for football.

Causes Sickness

Good Health Impossible With a Disordered Stomach.

There is nothing that will create sickness or cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge every one suffering from any stomach derangement, indigestion or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question of formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine they are not satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a box. Sold in Rushville only at our store.—The Rexall Store. Lytle's Drug Store.

SUFFERING ENDED

F. B. Johnson & Co. Sells the Remedy That Cured Stomach Trouble of 14 Years.

And best of all F. B. Johnson & Co. guarantees it to cure you or money back. Read this:

"I have been a great sufferer for 14 years, everything I ate gave me heartburns. I have never been able to get anything that would give me any relief until a friend of mine insisted on my taking Mi-o-na. I took a 50 cent box and I believe I am entirely well." F. M. Bryant, Newman, Ga., June 5th.

Mi-o-na is not a nostrum; it is the prescription of a celebrated physician who is a specialist in stomach diseases.

One clever woman calls Mi-o-na the Sunshine Prescription because it changed her from a miserable, nervous dyspeptic into a bright, healthy, happy woman in a few weeks.

These little Mi-o-na tablets are surely wonder workers. They absolutely cure indigestion whether acute or chronic.

They stop belching, gas in stomach, and heaviness, in a few minutes. Dis-ease after eating vanishes as if by magic when one or two little Mi-o-na tablets are swallowed.

Only 50 cents a box at leading druggists everywhere, and in Rushville by F. B. Johnson & Co. Test a sample free from Booth's Mi-o-na, Buffalo, N. Y.

HYOMEI

Rushville is doing homage this week to the noblest of animals—the horse.

“Hoss-talk” is the prevailing conversation. Everything else is barred for the time being.

Rush county is in its element. The admiration for the horse is a Rush county characteristic.

After the horse show, the lot sale. After the lot sale, the city election. After the city election, a booming Rushville.

New York City, according to a published estimate, ordinarily eats 200,000 pies a day. Undoubtedly this is what ails New York City.

The Greeks are thinking of offering a crown to the Duke of Abruzzi, probably as a sort of consolation for his failure to acquire an American wife and fortune.

But while the horse show is in progress, do not forget that an effort is being made right along and without cessation, to boom Rushville and to secure additional industries.

“Why so many divorces?” asks Joe Pulitzer’s paper. That’s an easy one Joe. ‘Cause there are so many affinities at large and devoting their time to hunting for “easy money.”

A wise woman is Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Equal Franchise Society, who steps to the center of the stage to announce her opposition to “street corner shrieking” for votes for women.

While the Wright brothers want it understood that they are not showmen, Wilbur’s presenting and collecting a bill for $12,500 for his exhibition flights at the Hudson-Fulton show indicates that they have no prejudice against the showman’s method.

Evidently there is a break near at hand between Governor Marshall and Mr. Taggart with reference to the temperance question. Mr. Taggart wants the Democratic party to come out squarely against local option while Governor Marshall thinks it wise to ignore the question in the State convention.

THIS AND THAT

There were a lot of “leading” questions asked today, said a man on the street, and then everybody who heard him hit him.

There is nothing which cures a knocker quite as quickly as for him to get out and try to do something, and then be knocked.

Don’t be cross with the weather man about the rain. The chances are that he did the best he could for us. You know he was rather considerate with Rush county this year.

See that boy studying over there? No, he’s not thinking of the problem at school. He is studying up the best joke he can play on Halloween without getting caught.

Welcome, yes, thrice welcome, Mr. Watson. It sounds good to hear that you have bought property here and intend to make this your home.

There are more forgers among musicians than among crooks. And to think that they can strike off false notes without ever being punished for it.

In the big Atlantic liner there are over one thousand tons of piping of various kinds. The boiler tubes, if placed end to end, would stretch about ten miles, the condenser tubes over twenty-five miles. The condensers pump up more than fifty thousand tons of water a day, and the furnaces consume about eight million cubic feet of air an hour. No fewer than fifty thousand separate pieces of steel are used in the main structure.

Where Babies are Real Works of Art

In Japan the Training Begins With the Great Grandmother

Babies in Japan—you’ve heard this, haven’t you?—don’t cry. A fairy-tale, of course. Babies will be babies—even in Japan. Only in Nippon, when a baby does cry, nobody thinks that the world is coming to an end, says Adache Kinnosuke in The Delineator for November. This, also, is true—that when you put your American baby side by side with ours, you will see a difference, just about such a difference as that between the city of Mukden which our soldiers saw while fighting through it, and the one seen by the newspaper men a week later.

With us in Japan, the baby is (supposed to be, at least) a work of art, not a manufacture; a work of art, too, which calls for something more than the mere art of man; the graces of the gods as well. What really takes away the breath of the Japanese observer in America is not, as the American thinks in his innocence, the Grand Canyon of Arizona or the automobile rush of life down another grand canyon of brick and stone in lower Broadway. It is the off-hand, cheerful manner in which the Americans try to make their babies good—simply by heeding, for example, a Biblical suggestion made to the Jews of a few thousand years ago (what a beautiful comment on the up-to-date genius of the American people!) about sparing of the rod!

The Japanese were to mother your children, they would start—if they only could—the work in the days of your great-grandmothers. Nobody—nobody in Japan at least—ever talks of, much less attempts, making a first-rate acrobat in one generation. When Mr. Roosevelt takes up jiu-jitsu at the tender age of forty-five all of us feel much flattered, but we do not feel like running away from him in the hour of his anger. And we take the rearing of the child, the art of the making of man, very much more seriously than the making of an athlete.

Only, in the factory where man is made, we take a little more time than you do. We begin much earlier than you do. Having had the start of four or five generations of polite training, it would be strange indeed if our babies failed to come into life with a decided hereditary inclination for gentler manners. Blood will tell.

Boom News From Our Sister Cities

New Castle factories are running display advertisements in the newspapers there asking for more men.

Shelbyville Democrat: Shelbyville has a chance to secure another factory which would add much to the prestige of the city and would in time be of material benefit to every citizen. The Jenne Acetylene Gas Machine Company (incorporated), of Indianapolis, desires to change the location of its plant, and in casting about for a wide-awake city with good shipping facilities, found Shelbyville much to its liking. The plant is entirely different from anything located in Shelbyville at the present time, and the bringing of this factory to this city would be another important step towards making Shelbyville a city of varied industries.

New Castle Times: Rushville newspapers are filled with rainbow prospects of that good old town. Let us fervently wish all the good gray matter they are expending in efforts at expanding will not be wasted in demanding new life, more factories and better business.

Brown Hands Common

Walnuts are plentiful this season and nutting parties are common among the boys after school and on Saturdays. If a boy is seen now without brown fingers it is a sure sign that he has failed to carry out at least one of his desires, for what boy is there who does not want to go “walnut huntin’.”

It is not an easy undertaking to go after hickory nuts. The hickory trees are guarded jealously by the owner and if one is given the privilege of a grove he is indeed fortunate. “Shell barks” are by no means as plentiful as walnuts and not a great many of these exclusively North American nuts will be harvested this fall by Rushville lads.

Another pastime for youngsters in the last few weeks has been the gathering of the Indiana banana, or pawpaw. They were plentiful where the trees have been spared by the “woodman’s ax” and although there has not yet been frost enough to ripen them they are gathered and covered with bran and oats, when in a few days they become soft, ripe and yellow.

Whalebone cost only 35 cents a pound half a century ago. Today it costs about $5 a pound. The total product landed from the American fisheries during the nineteenth century exceeded ninety million pounds. A single whale may yield up to three thousand pounds.

SOCIETY NEWS

Greensburg News: The marriage of James McCann and Mrs. Martha English Bell was consummated in Rushville Sunday. The bride was a native of this city, but since her former marriage to Mr. Bell, has resided at Sexton, in Rush county, where she owns a farm and where she will continue her residence with her new husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Orpha Harton, at their spacious country home, south of Rushville, celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary in a most unique and elaborate manner, Saturday evening and Sunday, says the Greensburg News.

At an early hour Saturday evening all gathered at this pleasant home and spent a most delightful social evening, during which refreshments were served. The merriment lasted until a late hour and was followed by a slumber party.

Sunday morning at nine o'clock a three course luncheon was served and then an excellent musical program was given.

At three in the afternoon the guests partook of another delicious luncheon, consisting of four courses. The dining room was very pretty and attractive with its beautiful decorations, which had been arranged by skillful hands, bride's roses and ferns being used in profusion. The color scheme was yellow and white and tables were lighted with yellow and white tapers and also embellished with roses and ferns.

Probably one-half the drinks served in the cafes of France are sirups diluted with water or ordinary siphon soda. Such drinks cost 8 or 15 cents a glass in the cafes, and yet the conspicuous soda-water fountain of the United States is seen but rarely in France, and then only in the large cities through which the American tourist passes.

Vagaries of a Cold.—You can never be quite sure where a cold is going to hit you. In the fall and winter it may settle in the bowels, producing severe pain. Do not be alarmed nor torment yourself with fears of appendicitis. At the first sign of a cramp take Perry Davis' Painkiller in warm, sweetened water and relief comes at once. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Bees Laxative Cough Syrup is so highly recommended, because it not only moves the bowels gently and thereby stops the cold, but it also allays inflammation of the lungs and throat. It is pleasant to take. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

GODD IDEA, THIS.

(Richmond Item.)

A class, which will develop into a power for the good of Richmond mankind, to teach the principles of the first aid to the injured, will be organized tomorrow evening at the Richmond Y. M. C. A. It will be under the direction of County Coroner Dr. Allen L. Brankamp, who is also perfecting the class organization.

The instructions will be very comprehensive in character and will cover the treatment of injuries of all kinds, including drowning, burns, poisons, asphyxia, etc. A knowledge of making and arranging bandages, tying knots and administering restoratives will also be imparted. The course will be practical in every detail.

Great interest is being taken in the work by the manufacturers of Richmond and nearly every factory will have a representative in the class. The Pennsylvania Railroad company is also encouraging the movement and it, too, will be represented by several trainmen and shopmen.

COUSIN TO WALLING.

(Connersville Examiner.)

A rather sensational feature of the day's developments in the Wilson murder case which startled those in the court room Tuesday afternoon was the answer of Orville Appleman, when he was being questioned by Attorney Conner regarding his competency to sit as a juror in the case. One of the questions put to every talesman is that inquiring as to whether he or any of his relatives have ever been charged with a serious crime.

"Have you or any of your relatives ever been charged with a serious crime, and are you opposed to the infliction of the death penalty, Mr. Appleton?" asked Mr. Conner.

Mr. Conner told the lawyer that he had a cousin, Alonzo Walling, who had been convicted on circumstantial evidence and hanged for the murder of Pearl Bryan.

This case was one of the most famous in the West and most people are familiar with the details.

Mr. Appleton was excused from service in the Wilson case. There are many relatives of Alonzo Walling in the eastern part of Franklin county.

At 2:30 Tuesday afternoon the list of seventeen men brought in court had been exhausted and court adjourned until this morning in order to give Sheriff Miller an opportunity to find other prospective jurors in Franklin county.

When court adjourned Tuesday afternoon there were nine men in the jury box, but it can not be said that all of these will be allowed to remain in the case.

PRISONER GOT AWAY.

(Greensburg News.)

The night officers and Sheriff S. N. Patterson, in an automobile from the Privett & Taylor garage, made a run to the Joe Kitchen farm Monday evening about 7:30 o'clock. The family living on the place, William McKim, called in and said that they had caught a colored fellow attempting to rob the house. After a fierce tussle with him, the man was being held, and for the officers to come and get him. They went with all the haste possible over an exceedingly poor road, and hiked it on foot for three quarters of a mile up a muddy lane. When they arrived they found no prisoner for the fellow had gotten away. One of the men at the place had been cut by the fellow, but his injury was more like a scratch. As far as can be learned the man obtained nothing and his visit resulted in nothing more than considerable excitement.

CHAPTER XIII.
"DON'T YOU SEE I LOVE YOU?"
TWO dead; three mangled; one blind—
Slowly, in dazed, mechanical fashion, Sommers repeated the awful summary of his failure.
Frances' face was horror stricken, too, but with a quick, impulsive gesture of love and faith she put her hand on his arm.
"It isn't your fault," she said. "I know it isn't your fault."
His hand caught hers with a quick grip of thanks for the renewed courage her sympathy and faith brought him.
"Won't you leave us now?" he said,
low. "I'll see you and tell you what he has to say."

Reluctantly the girl bowed and hurried away into the hotel to wait there alone until her lover could see her.
When she had gone Sommers turned quickly to Bradley.
The secret service man had been standing there, his face expressionless, but his shrewd eyes taking in and his keen brain analyzing all that had transpired.
"Why was I not informed of this before?" asked Sommers, still partly dazed.

"They decided to keep it from you until you came ashore," replied the secret service man. "How it all happened will be decided at the court of inquiry. I have been on the case since the accident occurred. Your gun stood the test at the proving ground. It's my opinion that it was killed in the tempering bath."
A wave of light swept over Sommers.
He saw everything now. It was all plain. He understood why a drunken foreman had been left in charge of the job. He knew why Pinckney had been so solicitous. He realized why, finally, he himself had been assaulted in the last desperate effort to keep him from witnessing the transfer of the gun to the tempering bath.

Finally he understood why Frances had come there that night. She must have suspected, and she had come to save him. The thought of the dastardly trick enraged him.
"It was killed in the tempering bath!
I swear it was!" Sommers exclaimed fiercely. "Pinckney was in the room that night at the Durant works. He's here—here at this hotel. I'll settle with him!"

He had taken a step when the secret service man caught him by the arm.
"Easy, lad, easy!" he cautioned.
"Don't lose your head! I've made investigations in Pittsburg, and I'm going to question Mr. Pinckney myself."

With a desperate effort under the restraining hand Sommers regained his self control. His mind began to work again logically, shrewdly. He saw what he had to do and how he must help this friendly officer.
"May I ask when you were in Pittsburg did you question a man named Marsh?"

"You mean the draughtsman? No," replied Bradley. "Do you think he knew anything of it?"

Sommers shook his head in puzzled fashion.
"He may have known something. He ought to. He was there."
"Did you ever see a Mr. Rhinestrom about there?" asked Bradley next.

Sommers still looked puzzled.
"No, I didn't see him, but I heard a great deal of him. Marsh was greatly interested in the gun Rhinestrom had invented."

Bradley looked keenly at the naval officer.
"Oh, Marsh was interested in that gun? But you never saw Rhinestrom about there?" he said significantly.

Again there came that startling flash to Sommers. He began to suspect just how blind he had been, but before he could say another word Pinckney came out quickly from the hotel. The general manager stopped, surprised at sight of the naval lieutenant.

"How are you, Sommers?" he said coldly.
Sommers bowed with equal coldness as Bradley stepped in between the two men.

"I've been most anxious to see you, Mr. Pinckney," the secret service agent began.
Pinckney looked at him, surprised.

"Who are you?" he asked.
"United States secret service man detailed on the Sommers gun case," came the quick reply.
Pinckney suppressed an involuntary start.

"Oh, I see," he said. "I'm downright sorry. Most unfortunate affair.
Indeed. But what can I do?"
Bradley smiled pleasantly.

"Why, answer a few questions, if you will," he suggested.
The general manager could not keep down all expression of annoyance, but he knew it would never do to completely antagonize the secret service man on the case, so he forced an apology for a smile.

"Of course, with pleasure. But I'm rather pushed for time. We sail almost immediately."
"In that case, I'll begin at once."

He turned to the government agent undisturbed.
"Mr. Durant has kindly consented that I should make a thorough investigation at the works in Pittsburg when I return. He is anxious to do all in his power to help me find upon whom the blame rests."

The general manager drew himself up.
"Blame," he said sternly.
"Yes, blame," was the pointed reply.

Again Pinckney made a move for delay. He wanted to get to Pittsburg as quickly as he could to see Marsh and cover up all tracks before he answered any questions.

"Can't you defer all questions until the investigation in Pittsburg?" he suggested. "I'm in a great hurry, and in Pittsburg I will have all facts before me and can answer fully."

But Bradley was a man not to be denied.
"I should prefer asking one or two now," he said and without waiting for response put his first query bluntly.

"What is your belief, Mr. Pinckney, as to the cause of this unfortunate action?"

"My belief?" said the general manager blankly.
"Yes. Do you think the gun was killed in the tempering bath at your arsenal?"

Pinckney's face flushed.
"I do not," he retorted angrily. "I think the gun was constructed on theory, and the theory was unsound."

Sommers, standing by, made a quick, angry movement, but a sharp look from Bradley restrained him. The secret service man was apparently very much interested and thoroughly willing to accept Pinckney's idea.

In fact, agreeing with people was part of Bradley's stock in trade, and, in fact, in Washington it was generally admitted that this particular star of the secret service bureau could agree with more people and get more information without offense than any man in the service. Now, apparently, he was Pinckney's friend.

"M'm—very interesting," he said.
"Now, what do you think of the Rhine-strom gun, Mr. Pinckney?"

Pinckney looked at his questioner sharply, but the face before him showed only bland agreement and casual interest.

"I consider the Rhinestrom gun the best gun that has been invented," said the general manager firmly.

Some of Them Existing in Rushville.

The average mother finds sufficient annoyance and worry performing the ordinary duties in the rearing of a family, but the cares and anxiety are doubled when there is added to ordinary conditions that of weakened kidneys in a juvenile member of the family. How to cure it should be of untold value to Rushville mothers.
Read this:

Mrs. Ernest Carpenter, 919 North
Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says:
"My son had very weak kidneys and was unable to control the kidney secretions at night. This trouble had clung to him so long that I was afraid it could not be cured. The doctor had failed to bring relief and the child became delicate and in very poor health. He had a sallow complexion and there many symptoms of disordered kidneys. Learning that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured many other cases of this kind, I obtained a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. Their use quickly relieved my son and greatly improved his health."

SAGE AND SULPHUR
Made Her look Twenty Years Younger
READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT
STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.
County of Monroe }
Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

"And have you controlled the patents of the Rhinestrom gun?"
"The Durant steel works control them," corrected the general manager.
"And you have a large government order for the Rhinestrom gun now that the Sommers gun is out of the way?" persisted the unruffled questioner.
Pinckney had been losing more and more of his self control as each succeeding home thrust struck him.
"I don't like what that question implies, sir," he exclaimed angrily.
Bradley made a slight conventional nod.
"I'm sorry," he said indifferently.
The conspirator had begun to realize he was fencing a strong, shrewd antagonist and it would not do to lose his temper, so he hastened to explain.
"We had the Rhinestrom order before the Sommers gun was forged."
"Who is Rhinestrom?" commanded Bradley, with a sudden sternness that took the general manager completely by surprise. Pinckney had not anticipated that question. For a moment he hesitated, repeating blankly after the government agent:
"Who is he?"
Bradley's manner had changed abruptly from bland curiosity to stern determination to know.
"Yes," he said sharply, "who is Rhinestrom? Where does he come from? Where is he now? Whom did you deal with?"
Pinckney hesitated.
"Why, I have no idea who his friends are."
"Does Mr. Durant know?" asked the detective.
Still Pinckney fenced.
"I—I couldn't say, really. Better ask Mr. Durant."
"I did," retorted Bradley shortly.
Pinckney saw it was time to end this cross questioning if he was to get away safe. The government agent was shrewder than he thought, and this thin spot in his defense—the identity of Rhinestrom—seemed perilously weak. The only thing to do was to end it at once.
"I haven't time to talk to you further," he said.
Bradley made a restraining gesture.
"Just a moment more, Mr. Pinckney.
Has Rhinestrom ever been at your works?"
"No, sir," returned the general manager promptly.
"Then how does Marsh know him?"
demanded the government agent sternly.
It was pure bluff, but Pinckney had no idea of that, and he took the bait, hook, slinker and all.
"Marsh," he exclaimed blankly.
"Why, Marsh doesn't know him."
For the first time Bradley permitted himself a sneering smile.
"I can only go by what Marsh says," he declared. "Do you mean to tell me, Mr. Pinckney, that Marsh, the draughtsman of the Durant steel works, does not know the inventor of the Rhinestrom gun?"

Pinckney's face was brick red with anger now, but inside there was a quiver of apprehension that Marsh had talked. If so, all was up. Anyway this questioning must stop.
"I'm not going to talk to you further, sir," he declared angrily. "Your manner is distasteful to me."
Again there came that mocking, satirical apology.
"Oh, I'm so sorry. But, Mr. Pinckney, you don't mind admitting that the man in charge of forging the Sommers gun was drunk?"
Pinckney hesitated.
"I do admit that," he said, "but he did his work properly. I was there myself to watch him. Mr. Sommers was there too."
(To be continued.)

For the Sake of Others
Consider s it Her Duty to Tell.

I write this for publication with the hope that it will influence others who suffer as I did to try the great Root Juice remedy. The wonderful medicine has done so much good for me that I feel it my duty to tell it.
For years I spent a life of misery, but thanks to the great discovery, I am now free from every ache or pain.
I, like many others, was very skeptical when the papers first told of the many hundreds of cures Root Juice was making, but after seeing several people that were using it I concluded to try it, although I felt that every organ of my body was almost worn out. My liver was torpid, my kidneys were weak and my stomach was in a terrible condition. At times it felt like it was full of rocks. A great deal of gas formed and I had weak spells frequently and was badly constipated. My appetite was very poor and even in hot weather my hands and feet were cold. I was using some kind of medicine most of the time, without much benefit. After taking the Juice a few days I began to improve. I have used four bottles and am feeling better than I have for twenty years, and I believe the remedy has permanently cured me.—Mrs. J. A. Colbert R. R. No. 7, Ft. Wayne, Ind. The great remedy has done worlds of good here, as any one can learn by calling at Wolcott's drug store. Root Juice is sold for $1 a bottle, or three for $2.50.

We will give away absolutely FREE on New Years Day, 1910, a fine KURTZMAN Upright Piano to the Church Society, Fraternal Organization, Club or Individual, securing the greatest total value in coupons issued by the above named merchants, prior to Dec. 25, 1909. This Piano is recognized as one of the finest instruments made, having in its construction the very best of material and workmanship. More than 5000 KURTZMANN Pianos are now in use in Indiana and for over sixty years its popularity has gradually increased until today the "Old Reliable" KURTZMANN is the most talked of piano in the State. The one to be given away is richly designed in fancy mahogany, and has compartment bench to match.

The sole purpose of this progressive enterprise is to stimulate trade, promote a spirit of co-operation, and to encourage the people of Rush County to buy of home merchants.

Coupons will be issued by the above named firms to every customer for the amount of goods bought. The sum total of these coupons issued by the merchants, will determine the person or organization to which the Piano will be awarded. All coupons must be deposited with T. W. Lytle, Sec'y., or any member of the association, on or before Dec. 28, 1909, who in turn, will submit them to a committee of three Rushville Bankers, who will award the Piano to the person or organization sending in coupons representing the greatest amount of purchases.

The above piano was furnished by S. E. Secoy, local representative for the Kurtzmann Piano In Case of a Tie of Contestants Each Will Receive a Piano

CANNON SCORES THE INSURGENTS

Sp a'er Pours Hot Shot into His Critics.

NE LEAVES IT TO PEOPLE

In Defending His Position in Congress, Speaker Cannon Says It is Time For the People to Decide the Contest That Has Arisen in Congress—In the Characteristic Cannonesque Style of Fervid Oratory Uncle Joe Denounced the Attacks Upon Himself and the Congress.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 20.—Before an audience that jammed the opera house here, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of the national house of representatives poured hot shot into the ranks of the insurgents. Mr. Cannon, standing on a stool, with his hands straight up and that famous left forefinger wigwagging eloquently, ripped into LaFollette and Cummins. He declared that the time had come for the people of the United States to decide whether seven insurgents in the senate who called themselves Republicans and twenty members of the house constituted the Republican party.

Mr. Cannon denounced the charge of a deal with Tammany as a falsehood. He roasted the metropolitan newspapers that assailed partisanship as "unfair falsehood and denunciation." He gave what easily could be construed as Cannon's reason for removing Representative Fowler from the banking and currency committee and which led to the bitter denunciation of Mr. Cannon by Fowler. He told his audience that Mr. Fowler tried to block the will of the majority and that the majority had to put Mr. Fowler to one side.

When Uncle Joe was not rising in all his might and in the characteristic Cannonesque style of fervid oratory to denounce the attacks on himself and congress, he launched into satire, fables and biting sarcasm levelled at the insurgents. Mr. Bryan and others who have termed him a "czar."

"My God, can all this be true?" shouted Uncle Joe, with a smile that got the audience, as he finished the indictment against him. Holding back the lapels of his coat, standing straight as a pine needle and throwing his head back, he said with dramatic fervor: "Behold Mr. Cannon, the Beelzebub of congress. Gaze on this noble, manly form—me, Beelzebub—me, the czar!"

Mr. Cannon pulled back the curtain of congress, reviewed his more than a score of years in congress, gave the lie direct to some of his critics, and declared that there had been no time in all the history of congress when a majority could not change the program or depose a speaker. He reviewed Speaker Reed's career and told how the Democrats got control of the congress and of how they then, after denouncing Reed as a tyrant, re-enacted the Reed rules in toto and did it again in the next congress that they controlled.

"And my friend, William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, voted for those same rules," shouted Uncle Joe. "He didn't say anything about the czar business then or for many, many years. He did not mention the czar business in 1896, in 1900 nor in 1904, but he waited until he thought everybody had forgotten about his vote for the czar rules, and then in the Denver platform said that the congress of the United States had ceased to be a deliberative body and was the tool of this Beelzebub, Cannon."

Mr. Cannon then pulled back his coat and invited his thoroughly delighted and enthused audience to gaze on the "manly form of Mr. Beelzebub."

WHY JUDGE I

Candidate Gaynor Says He Didn't Know Where Tammany Hall Was.

New York, Oct. 20.—William J. Gaynor told a crowded ratification meeting at Tammany Hall last night that he had not known before where Tammany Hall was and that he had been obliged to telephone from his house early to find out how to get there. It was a poser for the crowd, but after a little hesitation there was a somewhat timid attempt to take it as an ex-judicial joke. The crowd was flabbergasted again later when the former jurist and candidate for mayor threw their applause back into their faces. He told them that he had been accustomed for sixteen years to address only forums and that their applause was to him only so much consumption of time; still, if it pleased them, he said, he did not especially mind it. He got silence quicker than he ever got it in court.

It was the typical Tammany ratification meeting, only minus some of the enthusiasm which is the usual accompaniment of these meetings.

"And so this is Tammany Hall," said Judge Gaynor, looking about as though gazing for the first time upon paradise—and just slightly glancing upward.

Said the judge, with the same straight face: "It's the first time I was here. Strange as it may seem to you, for you doubtless think yourselves important here in Manhattan, I did not even know where it was."

The judge pursued himself soberly with the statement: "I had to telephone from my house to find out how to get here." The judge continued: "And is it Tammany Hall? Well, if it be, where is the tiger?"

"Miaouw-ow-ow," came from the gallery, and got a laugh that the speaker had failed to evoke.

TROUBLOUS TIMES FOR KING ALFONSO

Youthful Ruler Finds It Hard to Eat Or Sleep.

London, Oct. 20.—Since the news of the first Ferrer demonstrations were received at the palace, says a mailed dispatch from Madrid dated Oct. 17, King Alfonso has worn a dejected appearance. He is suffering from sleeplessness and loss of appetite, and it is feared his health may be affected. Apparent tranquility reigns in Madrid and the provinces, but it is only apparent.

The situation in Barcelona inspires grave fears. Anyone uttering a word about Ferrer is arrested. Many have been arrested for possessing Ferrer's photographs.

Word also comes that Premier Maura has announced that he will not resign, but it is believed King Alfonso, recognizing that Spain's national life is at stake, will force the head of the present cabinet into retirement. It is positively known here that the king has received intimations, put forward in a manner more forcible than delicate, from England and France that Maura's international and foreign policies are stirring up a revolt that threatens serious difficulties in every European country. In the face of these hints no doubt is felt that Alfonso will force Maura to resign. General Weyler, the "butcher," to whom the king turned for advice, told the ruler that the position of the present cabinet, requiring 100 guards in constant attendance on the premier and eighty guards over each of the other ministers, is ridiculous.

A rumor from Barcelona has it that the prosecutor who demanded the death penalty for Ferrer has been slain. On the night between Friday and Saturday last the prosecutor was walking on the Rambla de Canaletas, when an individual fired two shots from a revolver at him and then ran away. The story is that the prosecutor died at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

ATTORNEYS AT BROWN FUNERAL

The Memorial For Well Known New Castle Man Will be Held There Thursday Morning.

HE HAD BEEN SICK TWO YEARS

In State Legislature From 1887 to 1889—Survived by Widow and Four Children.

Concerning the death of William A. Brown, who was well known in this city, the New Castle Courier says:

After suffering for about two years from a complication of diseases, the Hon. William A. Brown died at the family residence on East Broad street Monday night at 11 o'clock at the age of 55 years. The deceased had for years been an active and prominent practitioner at the Henry county bar and gained quite a reputation as a criminal lawyer. He was frequently called to other courts as attorney and special judge.

In 1887 and again in 1889 Mr. Brown was elected a member of the lower house in the general assembly. He served with credit to the county and distinction to himself. Until a few years ago when disease laid him low, he was a familiar figure on the streets and in the court room and had a large acquaintance throughout the county and State.

Throughout his long illness he was a patient sufferer and appreciated the calls of friends and many acts of kindness rendered in his behalf.

Mr. Brown is survived by his wife and four children. The children are David Paul Brown, Miss Winifred Brown. Another daughter, Mrs. Charles Neal, lives in Seattle, Wash., and arrived home a few days ago.

The funeral will be held at the home Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock and the services will be in charge of Drs. F. G. Browne and Milton Mahin of the M. E. church.

Attorneys met at the court house yesterday and appointed committees to draft resolutions bearing upon the death of Mr. Brown. The committee is composed of M. E. Forkner, E. H. Bundy and Fred C. Gause. The flower committee consists of R. S. Hunter, N. Guy Jones and E. A. Nation.

Invitations will be extended to adjoining associations to attend the memorial to be held in honor of the deceased on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the court house, at which time the resolutions will be adopted.

AMUSEMENTS

All the local theaters are planning to handle big crowds this evening and have made unusual efforts to get good bills for the horse show crowds.

The Palace has a western story tonight in the film, "Across the Divide." It is dramatic and is interesting from start to finish. The Palace management was very glad to get this film for tonight when large crowds are expected.

The Star-Grand offers two Biograph subjects tonight. The first is a comedy drama entitled "The Mills of the Gods." "The mills of the gods grind slow, but they grind exceedingly small," is but a synonym of "all comes to him who waits," yet a more correct expression would be "all comes to him who hustles while he waits." Genius is often rewarded with posthumous recognition, still there are occasions where fate has produced an agent, who has lifted merit into the light of publicity quite unexpectedly. Such an occasion occurs in this Biograph film story. The second subject is entitled "Pranks" which is a farce comedy. Earl Robertson will sing "A Good Old Dollar Bill."

An entire change of program will be shown tonight at the Vaudet with a new film and a new song-hit.

Constantinople is the dirtiest city in the world, the only street cleaners being the starving dogs, cats and rats; but the people do use soap. Last year there were imported into that city 3,500 tons of soap selling from 20 to 60 cents a cake. Practically all the soap of Constantinople arrives from the island of Mitylene, which makes 32,000 tons a year from its olive oil.
